ABSTRACT

Auditor switching is the turn of KAP and auditor carried out by the company for a reason or there are certain factors of the company or of the auditor itself. This study aims to determine the effect of management changes, the auditor's opinion, accountant firm size, going concern opinion, and financial distress to the auditor switching on manufacturing companies listed in Indonesia Stock Exchange 2011-2014 period. The hypothesis was tested using logistic regression. The number of samples in the study were 164 of observation data. The results of this study indicate that the auditor's opinion and going concern opinion affect the auditor switching, while management changes, accountant firm size, and financial distress does not affect the auditor switching.
