ADNAN HANAFI. 2023. Analysis of the Potential of the Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries Sektors in Economic Growth in Wonosobo Regency. Supervised by Budi Widayanto

ABSTRACT

This study aimed to (1) Analyze the agricultural sector as a basic or non-basic sector in Wonosobo Regency (2) Analyze the potential and growth rate of employment in economic growth in Wonosobo Regency (3) Analyze the competitiveness of the agricultural sector against economic growth in Wonosobo Regency. The data used are Gross Regional Domestic Product at Constant Prices of Central Java Province and Wonosobo Regency in 2017-2021, related institutions and other sources such as journals, other literature related to this research. This research used quantitative methods and is descriptive in nature. The analysis technique used in this research is the Location Quention method of Shift share analysis, Revealed Comparative Advantage and Revealed Symmetric Comparative Advantage. The results showed that: 1) The agriculture, forestry and fisheries sector is a basic sector with an average LQ (location Quoutient) value of 2.30 2) The agriculture, forestry and fisheries sector of Wonosobo Regency has the highest value of 393,257.32 million and the agricultural sector in Wonosobo Regency has a growth rate of employment of 2,821 people (progressive employment), 3) The agriculture, forestry and fisheries sector of Wonosobo Regency has competitiveness or comparative advantage with an RCA value of 2.32 and an RSCA value of 0.40 over the period of 2017-2021.

Keywords: Regional potential, agricultural sector, labor force, sector comparative, non-base and base sector