

ABSTRACT

The author is writing about a paper with title “ The Involvement of Saudi Arabia in Military Coup of Egypt 2013 Against President Muhammad Mursi” which combines theoretical studies with several phenomena in International Relations matter, those are national interests, self-preservation, military security. Saudi Arabia’s involvement in Military Coup of Egypt against President Muhammad Mursi is the implementation of its policy to protect its national interests from the threats and influences from Muslim Brotherhood movement after the General Election of Egypt 2012. The improving relations between Iran and Egypt during Morsi’s administration also add fears to Saudi Arabia that both restored and improved relations between Egypt and Iran could endanger Saudi Arabia’s military security from Iran’s threat.

Keywords: National Interest, Military Coup, Self-Preservation, Muslim Brotherhood, Salafi-Wahhabite, Governmental System, Monarchy.
