

ABSTRACT

INCREASED COOPERATION CHINA TO TANZANIA IN 2009 - 2013

The economy is the most important sector of a country. Economic cooperation between countries could better maintain the stability of the domestic economy of a country. Though collaboration this economy like that of China and Tanzania are experiencing an increase in the period 2009 to 2013. Relations between the two countries was established more than 40 years since 1964. Tie for economic relations between the two countries continues to run well.

Cooperation between Cinda and Tanzania is more on the economic, trade and development. The increase continues from there though collaboration is more visible from the visited of President Hu Jiontao to Tanzania in 2009 . Improved relations between the two countries, such as in the fields of trade, the increase is very visible from 290 million USD in 2007 increased to 1.6 billion USD in mid- 2013. Cooperation is not the last of the factors that draw from the state of Tanzania.

Factors such as the stability on the political economy characterized by GDP growth and declining inflation , the cost of resources and the potential non- fares in Tanzania. Cooperation from China to Tanzania more likely to help fund and investment into Tanzania. Help fund and investment continued to increase from year to year brings its own benefits for the Chinese, that Chinese assurances of long-term profitability, in addition to making Tanzania as a supplier of raw materials and a good market share for Chinese products.